Wall Street Ends Mixed On Tuesday, Hopes of a Trade Deal with the US buoy Indian markets.

The Dow extended its strong upward move and the S&P 500 recovered from early weakness. The tech-heavy NASDAQ has slipped back to the downside.

The Dow surged more than 500 points, setting a new all-time closing high. Optimism grew as the Senate passed a bill to end the 42-day federal government shutdown, boosting confidence that the House would approve it this week.

A 3.1% slump in Nvidia shares weighed on the NASDAQ after SoftBank sold its entire stake in the chipmaker for more than $5 billion.

Gold climbed above $4,130 per ounce, near multi-week highs, as weak jobs data and low consumer sentiment fueled expectations for a December Fed rate cut. The prospect of the government reopening slightly reduces safe-haven demand.

Brent crude rose 1.6% to $65.09 per barrel, the highest since October 31, on the impact of the latest US sanctions on Russian oil and optimism over a potential end to the government shutdown.

The poll of exit polls suggests that the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) is set to retain power in Bihar.

U.S. President Donald Trump said tariffs on India will be lowered "very substantially", signalling an easing of tensions over New Delhi's Russian oil purchases as the two countries near a trade deal.

Hopes for a US government reopening, prospects of a trade deal with the US, and optimism about falling global interest rates have buoyed investor sentiment.

The Nifty rose for the second consecutive session yesterday, gaining 120 points to close at 25,694. Nifty faces a crucial resistance near 25,800, and a decisive move beyond this level could negate the existing downtrend and open the door for further upside.

The Indian markets are expected to open higher, as risk-on sentiment is likely to get a boost after the US and India both sounded hopeful of reaching a deal soon.

Key Events

Japanese manufacturers' sentiment surges to highest in nearly four years

Japanese manufacturing confidence surged to its highest level in nearly four years in November, led by the electronics and auto sectors which have been buoyed by softness in the yen and solid orders.

The monthly poll, which tracks the Bank of Japan's closely watched quarterly business survey, showed the manufacturers' sentiment index climbed to plus 17 - a level last seen in January 2022 - from plus 8 in October.

In particular, the electronics sector sub-index soared to plus 25 - its highest reading since December 2021 - from plus 5 last month.

Chart with Interesting Observations

Food Prices and Tax Cuts Push India's Inflation towards a Record Low

- India's inflation rate is estimated to have cooled dramatically, easing to around 0.4% in October, a steep decline from 1.5% recorded in September. This marks an unprecedented low, plunging well beneath the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) official inflation target range of 2% to 6%.
- The sharp deceleration was primarily driven by a notable fall in food prices, which make up a significant portion of India's consumer basket. Additionally, muted tax-related pressures and a reduction in certain indirect levies contributed to the overall moderation in price growth.
- Such a subdued inflation reading suggests a period of exceptional price stability, although it may also point to weaker demand dynamics and the lingering effects of a tight monetary stance. Policymakers are likely to watch this trend closely, as persistently low inflation could influence future interest rate decisions and broader economic growth strategies.
