Wall Street Slips as Strait of Hormuz Tensions Resurface

U.S. stocks pulled back from record highs Monday as renewed uncertainty over the Strait of Hormuz reignited inflation fears ahead of this week's CPI report. The S&P 500, Dow Jones Industrial Average, and Nasdaq Composite all closed modestly lower, snapping a two-week rally that had carried the S&P to a record close near 7,758.

AI-related names came under pressure after reports that Nvidia is working with major private equity firms on a financing initiative to mobilise more than $500 billion in third-party capital for hyperscalers, frontier AI labs, and enterprises building out data centres and buying Nvidia hardware. Nvidia shares slipped about 3% on the news. By channelling institutional credit, insurance capital, and private funding into underwriting GPUs and data centres, the arrangement lets customers finance AI infrastructure without straining their own balance sheets.

WTI and Brent crude climbed to $82 and $88 a barrel, respectively, after President Trump demanded compensation from Iran, dimming hopes of a near-term reopening. No agreement has materialised, and positions in Washington and Tehran have hardened.

The rally has pushed the 10-year Treasury yield to 4.71% and revived inflation concerns heading into Thursday's CPI print.

Adding to the policy picture, a surprise 23,000-job contraction in July nonfarm payrolls has led traders to sharply pare bets on a September rate hike, with markets now leaning toward the Fed holding steady.

Asian markets opened mixed today. Japanese markets are shut today for Mountain Day.

Indian E-way bill generation continued to signal sustained economic activity, rising 5.98% YoY to 139.79 million in July 2026 from 131.91 million a year earlier — the second-highest monthly level on record, just below March 2026's peak of 140.60 million. Sequentially, generation rose 2.21% from 136.77 million in June, even as growth moderated to 12.4% in Q1FY27 from 15.7% in Q4FY26.

The Nifty witnessed a volatile, range-bound session on Dalal Street, closing at 24,583, up 13 points in yesterday's session. It continues to oscillate between its 200-day SMA at 24,758 and 200-day EMA at 24,384. The primary trend remains bullish, with the index trading above its key near-term averages. A decisive break away from this range is likely to trigger a sharper directional move in the index.

Indian equities are set for a muted start today, weighed down by subdued global cues, as the ongoing Q1 earnings season continues to steer both stock-specific and broader market sentiment.

Investor morale in the euro zone returned to positive territory in August and rose for a fourth consecutive month, helped by a sharp improvement in current economic conditions and continued confidence in the recovery, a survey showed on Monday. The Sentix index for the euro zone rose to 0.9 points in August from -3.1 in July, compared with a Reuters poll forecast of -0.5. The index has now increased for four straight months and reached its highest level since February 2026

July US container imports hit fourth-highest on record, Descartes says

U.S. imports of containerized goods in July hit the fourth-highest level for the month, as shippers rushed in goods ahead of unknown U.S. tariff changes, supply chain technology provider Descartes Systems Group said on Monday.

U.S. seaports handled 2.5 million 20-foot equivalent units (TEUs) in July, down 4.3% from the near-record result in July 2025. Through the first seven months of 2026, imports were down 0.9% year over year while remaining well above pre-COVID pandemic levels, Descartes said. In late July, 10% global Section 122 tariffs expired and were replaced by new tariffs of up to 12.5% on imports from 60 countries tied to allegations of forced labor.

Singapore raises 2026 GDP forecast after Q2 beat on AI-driven demand

Singapore's economy grew faster than expected in the second quarter, prompting the government to sharply upgrade its full-year growth forecast as strong global demand for artificial intelligence-related products boosted manufacturing and trade. Gross domestic product expanded 5.9% year-on-year in the April-June quarter, easing from 6.3% growth in the first quarter, but exceeded expectations of 5.7% growth.

Bigger Than Railroads, Slower Than Expected: The Great AI Capex Gap

- Capital expenditure in artificial intelligence has emerged as the primary engine behind current US GDP growth, surpassing historical investment surges like the late-19th-century railroad boom—where infrastructure spending peaked at around 2% of GDP—by projecting to reach over 3.5% of GDP between 2025 and 2032. Despite this unprecedented, infrastructure-heavy capital injection driving headline economic expansion, a significant disconnect remains on the demand side, as end-user spending and consumer monetization for AI products continue to lag far behind the massive upfront investment.
